currentcare has been made possible through a joint effort by the Rhode Island Quality Institute and the Rhode Island Department of Health, with financial support from the federal government and other members of the health care community. The Rhode Island Quality Institute (RIQI) is Rhode Island's Regional Health Information Organization (RHIO). currentcare is Rhode Island's Health Information Exchange (HIE). It is a secure, encrypted electronic network, protected by law, that gives authorized medical professionals access to their patients' most up-to-date health information so their patients can get the best possible health care.

SAFER If you or a loved one needs immediate medical attention, your doctor needs your most up-to-date health information right away. currentcare helps health care professionals access that information quickly and easily so they can manage your treatment based on medications you are taking and existing medical conditions. When speed is critical to survival, doctors can use currentcare to help save lives.

MORE EFFICIENT When you're at your doctor's office, you want to know that he or she has your most up-to-date health information. currentcare eliminates the frustration and wasteful duplication of lost lab results and missing x-rays. With currentcare, all of your health care providers are in sync.

COMPLETE With so much going on, it's hard to coordinate all aspects of your health care. currentcare ensures that your providers have all the information they need in order to provide you with the most complete care possible. currentcare integrates your health care so your doctors can treat the whole person.

Today currentcare shares test results from medical laboratories and prescription drug records. Over time it will include more of your health information, like your allergies, X-rays, and medical history.

Participating in currentcare is free. You can sign up at a health care provider, such as a doctor's office, health center, or nursing home, or by calling currentcare at 1-888-858-4815.

Not all providers are using currentcare yet, but most emergency rooms and health centers in Rhode Island, and many nursing homes will be currentcare users by 2009. Many doctors' offices will become users by 2010. You can start building your currentcare record now so your health information is there when you need it.
